City takes property; owner upset

By Mike Chambers
Staff writer

Granite City officials are going to let a judge decide whether they have offered fair compensation to two Granite Citizens for property along Madison and Grand avenues.

City Council members voted Tuesday night to undertake quick-take procedures to be filed with a Madison County judge within five days.

Quick-take procedures fall under state eminent domain laws allowing the city to take control of property immediately for redevelopment purposes, allowing the courts to decide the "fair market price" at a later date.

One of the properties the city voted to take is Granite City One Hour Cleaners at 2009 Madison Ave.

Thomas Smith, owner of the business, said, "I told them some time ago that that's what they were going to have to do to

Smith Orbal
Smith has differed with the city since April, when the firm of Poletti and Associates of Collinsville, hired by the city, valued his property at $38,000.

The city later hired Barry Loman of Granite City to make a separate appraisal. That appraisal showed the property to be worth $52,500.

Smith said, "I spent more than that to get the business going. I'm not being compensated for anything but the land."

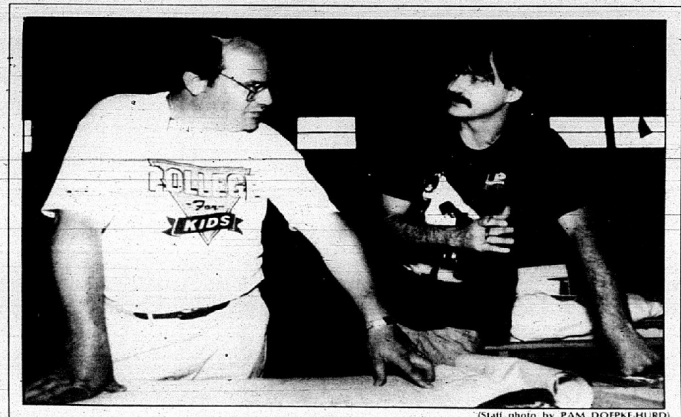

Ann Tatum of Granite City owns 12,000 square feet of property at the corner of 20th Street and Grand Avenue. Her attorney, Irvin Slate Jr., was present at an open forum prior to the council meeting.

Slate argued that, under the terms of quick-take procedures, the city has to have shown it, bargained in good faith.

"If there has not been a good-faith attempt to negotiate, then the requirements to implement quick-take have not been met," he told council members.

Slate later said the city has an extra policeman.

Town, assessor cut budgets to finance youth programs

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

The Granite City Town Board and assessor are taking reductions in their budgets in order to free up funds for youth programs.

Granite City Township officials Tuesday night passed a 1992-93 budget that includes a reduction in the amount allocated for the assessor's office, and a substantial increase in funds allocated for youth programs.

The assessor's office, a substantial increase in funds allocated for youth programs.

Hagnauer Cruse
Hagnauer agreed that the increase would be money well spent.

But, citing the possibility that new programs for young people could be initiated this year, Cruse asked for an increase in the youth allocation.

"There shouldn't be any difference between the seniors and the youth," Cruse said.

Hagnauer agreed that the increase would be money well spent.

"I don't think there's any doubt in any of our minds. We've seen what's going on across the country and we need something for kids," Hagnauer said.

Burris takes action to halt pyramid scheme

Attorney General Roland W. Burris filed a lawsuit Wednesday to halt an illegal pyramid operation that he says has been promoted extensively in the Granite City area for several months.

James "Jimmy" Phipps of Colleville, Texas, described as the mastermind and sole owner of Paymaster Profit System/Multi-Pax, is charged with violating two counts of the state's Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act in connection with operating a multi-level marketing program. The suit was filed in Cook County Circuit Court.

"Our investigation indicates that Paymaster's only business is to continuously recruit more and more people, who in return send money back up the line to their sponsor and their sponsor's sponsors," Burris said.

"This creates a fragile foundation which is destined to collapse," and it is the very definition of an illegal pyramid.

In recent weeks, the Paymaster plan has been marketed at seminars in Madison and Clinton counties, including one last week in the town of Breese which was attended by an investigator from the attorney general's office.

The plan was also touted in presentations in Chicago and the city's south suburbs, Burris said.

According to the lawsuit, Phipps operates Paymaster as what is purported to be a sales and educational incentive plan, but whose primary benefits are derived from the recruitment of other individuals into the program.

Documents filed with the court indicate the plan works like this: New recruits join Paymaster as a "consultant" under the sponsorship of another member. Upon joining, the new member pays a total of $129. Twenty-nine dollars is forwarded directly to Paymaster and $100 is paid to the sponsoring member.

The new consultants receive an "informational" packet that encourages them to create a "downline" by duplicating the recruitment process. Recruitment continues ad infinitum, with each new member

AIDS prompting new health rules

Area fire and police departments are preparing for new state regulations aimed at protecting public servants from deadly infections.

The Illinois Department of Labor is expected to adopt sweeping new regulations by Oct. 1.

The rules would require state and local governments to protect firefighters, police officers and other municipal employees from on-the-job exposure to the human immunodeficiency virus, hepatitis B and similar diseases.

Shots and protective gloves are among the precautions.

Granite City police and fire officials "say they are taking steps to meet the new requirements."

Rita Keene, director of safety and risk management for Madison County, said the first step is to identify those workers who could be at risk. "It's too early to say the number of employees that will be affected by this," she said.

The county sheriff's department has "equipped squad cars with 'AIDS kits' that contain gloves, masks and other supplies.

9 choices for president?

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois voters could have nine choices when they cast their ballots for president in November.

Petitions to place six third-party candidates, including Ross Perot on the ballot were filed by Tuesday with the State Board of Elections. All could be vying for votes with Democratic nominee Bill Clinton and expected Republican nominee President George Bush.

Representatives of each candidate claim to have gathered at least 25,000 signatures of registered voters needed to get on the ballot, with Perot backers claiming 100,000 signatures.

Although Perot announced on July 16 he would stop campaigning, he and followers have since formed a United We Stand group, and the effort to get his name on the ballot in all 50 states continues.

In addition, an array of little-known parties is fielding candidates for president in Illinois.

They include Andre Marrou of Las Vegas, standard-bearer for the Libertarian Party; Leonora Fulani of New York, leader of the New Alliance Party; James MacWarren of Chicago, the candidate of the Socialist Workers Party; James "Bo" Gritz of Sand Valley, N.W., running under the Populist Party banner; John Hagelin of Fairfield, Iowa, the presidential candidate of the Natural Law Party; and Howard Phillips of Vienna, Va., the Taxpayers Party candidate.

Joblessness rises here again

Unemployment figures rose again in the Metro East area as a result of the annual influx of summer workers and a continuing sluggish economy, said Dennis Hoffman, local area director for the Illinois Department of Employment Security.

The jobless rate rose from 8.3 percent in June 1991 to 9.7 percent in June of this year, a rise of 1.4 percent, for the area, which includes Clinton, Jersey, Madison, Monroe and St. Clair counties, stated an IDES report released last week.

"Normally, in June there is an influx of students who are looking for jobs, and the labor market is very stagnant right now. Those two factors caused the unemployment figures to rise," said Hoffman, who added that he expects the numbers to gradually drop in early fall.

Madison County had an increase of 1.2 percent over the last 12 months and a .9 percent increase in May.

The jobless rate for Illinois increased to 8.7 percent in June, up from 7.3 percent.

Man charged in killing caught with guns

A 19-year-old Worden man charged with the killing of a former Granite City girl was caught driving through town with several guns after he allegedly shot to death a girl he once dated.

Michael Strader, who gave police an address in the 800 block of Dyer Drive, was being held in Madison County Jail in lieu of $300,000 bail in the shooting death of 17-year-old Donnell Awalt of Worden. He faces a first-degree murder charge.

Strader has also been charged with attempted first-degree murder for shooting Awalt's boyfriend, Matt Pike, in the shoulder and groin.

Pike was treated for his injuries at Anderson Hospital in Maryville and released.

Awalt was gunned down outside her Worden home about 12:34 a.m. Sunday after a quarrel involving her. Pike and Strader, reports said.

Awalt, who was preparing for her senior year at Edwardsville High School, died from shotgun wounds to the neck and back.

Police responding to the 911 call were able to track down Strader's car in Worden shortly after the shooting. He reportedly told authorities he was on his way to the police station to surrender. He was her ex-boyfriend and he was apparently upset over their recent breakup. Lt. Dennis Fischer said they were involved in some type of argument and he fired several shots. Pike was shot three times.

When (Strader) was stopped, more than one gun was found in his car, Fischer said. He told authorities he was on route to surrender and we didn't have any reason not to believe him. He admitted his involvement.

Awalt's parents, David and Clara Awalt, were in Missouri at the time of the shooting. Donnell's 2-year-old daughter, Samantha, whose father is a brother of the suspect, was asleep inside the home when her mother was killed. Donnell and Samantha lived with the Awalts in the 8000 block of Brickyard Hill Road.

Clara Awalt said her daughter ended a relationship with Strader about three weeks ago, but had seen him occasionally.

Strader had reportedly harassed Donnell a few times since the breakup but made no serious threats, Clara Awalt said.

A security guard at SEMC told police McClellan entered the emergency room area of the hospital and demanded to see his sister.

McClellan then entered a secure area of the ER and became hostile, according to a police report.

He was escorted to the security office, where he allegedly attempted to hide a paper bag from security personnel. When he declined to give the bag to security officers, he was placed in custody and charged with disorderly conduct.

At the police station, a police officer reported finding a plastic bag in McClellan's possession, alleged to contain cannabis. An investigation into the matter is continuing.

An officer reported seeing a pickup truck southbound on Maryville Road at Lynch Avenue with no taillights.

The truck, driven by Steinmeyer, stopped at Pontoon Road and Vine Street.

An officer reported finding two open bottles of beer on the passenger side floor. After officers determined that neither Steinmeyer nor Horvath, who was a passenger, should drive, Horvath allegedly attempted to hit an officer with his elbow.

Viable, but not used.

Statewide grand jury law ignored

Attorney General Roland Burris lobbied for two years for statewide grand juries as a weapon against drugs, but the law has been on the books for seven months and remains unused.

There are several cases that present some possibilities, Burris spokesman Jim Leach said, but he wouldn't predict when the first statewide grand jury request will come.

Madison County State's Attorney William Haime supports the new law, which took effect Jan. 1, and is not surprised it hasn't been used yet.

"I think it's going to be a once-in-a-blue-moon law, and obviously we haven't seen any blue moons yet," Haime said.

Leach said the fact that the new law hadn't been used yet doesn't mean it was overplayed when it went through the Legislature.

"We knew it was going to take some time to get everything in place and a period of adjustment, and that's what we're in now," he said.

Staff members from the Attorney General's office have been holding meetings with state's attorneys and with the Metropolitan Enforcement Groups, the special anti-drug undercover police units around the state.

"It's a re-education process to get them to think in a multicounty manner and to keep their eyes open for cases good for a statewide grand jury," Leach said.

Haime said his office has attended meetings with the attorney general's criminal division but added, "Most of the cases we have can be handled by a county grand jury."

Burris contended statewide grand jury powers were needed to effectively go after drug traffickers who crossed county lines.

Jere Juenger, director of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southeastern Illinois, whose territory includes Madison County, said he hadn't been contacted yet about the statewide grand jury law.

State fair chief faces allegations

An internal investigation is under way into sexual harassment allegations against the state fair director.

State Agriculture Director, Becky Doyle, the boss of fair director Bud Hall, said Wednesday both her department and the Department of Central Management Services are investigating a complaint by Ellen Grant, former public information officer for the Agriculture Department.

Grant resigned last week. She filed the sexual harassment charge against Hall with the state Human Rights Department July 2.

Grant has also accused Doyle of improperly relieving her of some duties, saying she was essentially forced to resign in retaliation for her complaint. Grant left her $32,000-a-year job July 20.

The charge is not public record until an investigation has been completed by the department. Grant has declined to comment.

Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlinville, asked Doyle about the charge during a meeting of the Legislative Audit Commission Wednesday. Doyle declined to reveal specifics.

Hall has denied any wrongdoing and said the complaint involved a gag gift.

Asked whether Grant resigned of her own free will or was urged to do so, Doyle would only say, "She left the department."

Doyle said no disciplinary action is being taken against Hall at this time but she said if the internal investigation substantiates abuse or finds further problems there would be more immediate actions.

The show must go on

Understudies fill major roles in production

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

"The show must go on." Such is the tradition in the theater. And thanks to the last minute assistance of two young men, the Summerstage production of "Fiddler on the Roof" went off without a hitch over the weekend twice.

Director Beverly Scroggins and other cast members were frantically searching Friday afternoon for a substitute to play the part of Motel, the tailor, one of the major parts — for a performance later that evening.

It seems that Marty Eckhardt, who was to play the part at the Summerstage Playhouse, 2909 Pershing Blvd., was in an automobile accident Thursday night and was in surgery to repair a broken nose Friday afternoon.

with the opening-night performance scheduled for Friday evening.

Enter Adam Peck. Peck, 20, a voice major at McKendree College in Lebanon, had never before played the part, but was willing to give it a try.

At about 3 p.m., he was memorizing lines, rehearsing scenes and familiarizing himself with the directions.

Although he was told he could carry the script on-stage if needed, Peck decided to play the part from memory.

Seven hours later, the show was over and it had gone off without a hitch.

"We got lucky," Scroggins said. "Peck did a beautiful job. He has a marvelous singing voice and a photographic memory."

But because Peck was unavailable for Saturday's performance, another understudy had to be called in.

Enter Andy Johnson. Johnson, 17, played the role of Motel last spring at Belleville Township High School West and, most recently, at Scroggins' request, Saturday night.

That show went well also, Scroggins said.

"That just doesn't happen very often," Scroggins said of the last-minute replacements. "In my 33 years or so that I've been doing this, I've only been involved in a similar incident one time, when I got pneumonia."

Future performances of "Fiddler" are scheduled for Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with either Peck or Johnson playing the part of Motel.

"It'll be a lot easier this week," Scroggins said.

That is, barring any unforeseen accidents.

New Venice principal has had a variety of experience

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

With more than 20 years of experience in such large cities as Phoenix, Chicago and St. Louis, Lewis Williams is faced with a big change as he takes over as principal of Venice High School, where enrollment is 125.

Williams taught for eight years and has held administrative positions for the past 12 years.

Recently, he was principal at Julian Junior High in Phoenix. He was employed by the St. Louis Public School System last year.

Williams, born and raised in St. Louis, came back home to be with his family last year. Then, he heard about the job in Venice. All he needs now is for his Illinois certification to come through, and it will be "business as usual."

Williams said, "I worked in a small district in Arizona where the attendance was about 700. My building had 350 students and I thought that was small. Now, I'm at a high school with 125 students, so it's a little surprising at first."

"It'll be an adjustment for him," said District 3 Superintendent John Rush. "He worked in some small districts when he started out. It's a big change going from a large system to this neck of the woods."

Phoenix had 30 separate districts for elementary schools, junior high schools and high schools. Only one district, No. 3, serves Venice.

Williams is still finding out about the local district and the people he'll be in contact with. He welcomes the change to the smaller district because it becomes easier to know everyone.

"Basically, what I want to do is to assess the district and the high school," said Williams. "I've attended a number of school board meetings and I've talked with a number of people already. I want to be a resource that the kids can go to. I've always done that."

"It should be easier for him to meet everyone in this district," said Rush. "The downside of being in a smaller district is that he's going to have to do many different kinds of work. In a larger district, you can delegate things to other people."

Perhaps delegating responsibility won't be that big of a problem because parental involvement is very high on

"Basically, what I want to do is to assess the district and the high school," said Williams. "I've attended a number of school board meetings and I've talked with a number of people already. I want to be a resource that the kids can go to. I've always done that."

Perhaps delegating responsibility won't be that big of a problem because parental involvement is very high on

Williams' priority list. He also believes that the smaller enrollment is a plus when it comes to getting parents involved.

"I feel that we have a lot of parental support here," said Williams. "That's my No. 1 source in setting discipline in any school. I want to get as many parents involved as possible."

Discipline problems are most often associated with larger schools, but Williams said that small schools are not immune to those problems, either. He doesn't expect any more than the normal amount of trouble that all high schools must deal with.

"I would truly say that there are discipline problems wherever you go," Williams said. "But I don't expect that much here. From the people I've talked to, it's like a close-knit family here. It should be a good experience for me."

Williams is ready for the change and he's relying on his extensive background in education to help him along the way.

"With the experience I've acquired, not just from the large districts but the small ones as well, I think I'm ready for this job," he said.

"I can see this being long-term for me," Williams' experience was a big factor that influenced his selection.

"The experience he has really impressed me," said Rush. "He's the kind of person we need here."

Correction

A story on the Granite City School Board meeting in the July 30 Press-Record incorrectly reported that former Prather Principal Robert Bischoff had retired when in fact he is the director of the district's Chapter 1 instructional program.

The story also incorrectly reported that board member Monroe Worthen voted against the hiring of Steve Davis as principal of Prather Elementary School. Although Worthen had previously voted in the minority for the failed motion to hire Alan Order for the position, the official record shows he later voted with the majority to hire Davis.

SIUE housing applications open

Applications for single-student housing are now being accepted for Fall Quarter at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

According to Michael Schultz, SIUE's director of housing, prospective students are encouraged to apply now because available space at SIUE's Tower Lake Apartments complex will fill quickly. Students who submit applications early have a better chance of obtaining preferred space at Tower Lake, Schultz said.

A $100 fee is required with an application, which includes a $25 non-refundable application fee and a $75 refundable deposit. If a student decides not to move into a Tower Lake unit, if a student signs a contract, the $75 becomes a security deposit refunded after the student successfully completes terms of the contract.

The average, single-student unit at Tower Lake has two bedrooms, a living room, dining area, and bathroom, with storage space and all utilities included, as well as telephone service.

Housing applications may be obtained at the Central Housing Office in the basement of the Rendleman Building, Room 248, by Office in the Housing Office at Campus Box 1056, SIUE, Edwardsville, Ill. 62026-1056, or by calling 692-3931 or from St. Louis toll-free, (314) 621-1266, EXT. 3931.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

When a person is injured on the job, he is usually entitled to workers' compensation benefits. What happens, however, when the employee is hurt away from the job site? Illinois law provides that an accidental injury is compensable if it was sustained "arising out of" and "in the course of" the person's employment. Whether an injury sustained off the company property fits within these categories depends upon the facts of each particular case.

In one recent case, a man was an area sales representative for a tobacco company, and he frequently set up retail display racks at various stores. The company required workers to be at their assignments from 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M., he would occasionally use his own power tools and work at his house to build customized display racks. He was supposed to obtain permission to do work at home, but on several occasions prior to the accident he had gone home to work without permission.

On the day of the accident, the employee left the office at 3:45 P.M., with the materials for his car needed to customize a display rack.

He intended to use his power tools at home, but contrary to company policy he never obtained permission before leaving. On the way to his home, the employee's car was struck from the rear by an automobile, and he was injured.

The question here is whether the worker's injury "arose out of" and "in the course of" his employment, since he was hurt off the job site. The company argued that the main purpose of the employee's trip was to return home at the end of his workday. They further argued that he was not working for the benefit of the company at the time of the accident. The worker, on the other hand, noted that he was a traveling employee, and that his trip home was made necessary by the special requirements of his job.

The Court in this case found that the worker's injury "arose out of" and "in the course of" his employment, and that he was therefore entitled to benefits. The Court noted that at the time of the accident the employee was using his company car to transport company materials for the company's benefit. It was further noted that the employee had previously done custom work at home during regular work hours without permission.

Charges should be divulged

Tonight, the Granite City Board of Fire and Police Commissioners will consider the fate of a Granite City police officer who was suspended more than three weeks ago for unspecified "charges."

What is the officer accused of doing or not doing? No criminal charge is involved. But, since minor infractions are handled by the police chief — not the board — using reprimands and short suspensions, whatever the administrative "charges" are, they must be rather severe.

Do the newspaper and the public have the right to know what "charges" have been filed against the officer? Fire and Police Commissioner Dewey Melton says no, that the officer's right to privacy must be protected in case the charges prove unfounded. If and when the officer is found guilty, Melton said, the information will be released.

By that we must infer that, if the officer is not found guilty, no one will ever know why he was suspended with pay. Is that fair?

We would never argue that, just because police officers are public employees, the public has the right to know about all disciplinary actions taken against them. It would be ludicrous to insist that all allegations made against individual police officers be made public. Reprimands of individual officers for uniform violations, procedural violations, minor policy violations and even for being late to work are clearly between the officer and his supervisors and don't belong in the public arena.

But when a case goes before the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners, it's different. The situation is no longer a department discipline issue, but has been moved to a public body for consideration.

For a case to go to the board, the allegation or allegations against the officer are first fully investigated and a formal report is filed. Based on that report and his personal interviews, the chief of police determines that the allegation carries enough merit to require some sort of disciplinary action and that the allegation is serious enough to require action by the board.

Having made those determinations, the police chief prepares a formal statement charging the officer and presents it to the board. After reviewing that formal charge, the board schedules a hearing and the board can also take an interim action, such as suspending the officer or placing the officer on restricted duty.

All of that preparation and procedure protect the privacy of the public employee.

But when the board takes a public action — scheduling a hearing — and follows it with the very public action of suspension, as it has now done, it should be required to at the very least present its reason.

If a public body were to meet behind closed doors and find a person guilty of unspecified charges, it would reek of a Star Chamber and would not be tolerated. Whose interest is served by exonerating someone under the same conditions?

Columnist shows how not to win Miss Congeniality award

Carli Clarkin writes weekly for the Edwardsville Journal.

It has never been my goal in life to be dubbed Miss Congeniality. I see no need to be measured in eternities. But I simply don't like a few comments on a thing or two which have recently nettled me — and possibly you.

In the past, I've enjoyed TV coverage of the Olympic games, both summer and winter and to a limited extent, have enjoyed the Barcelona competitions. Limited in time, for one thing.

I simply think that this year's games were "excessively televised." But then, I can't always turn them off, right? Swimming, diving, gymnastics, track and field events are still great fun, but not for four to six hours of sitting.

What I didn't like was the much-touted Dream Team. Nor did I consider them a source of national pride.

Granted, pro basketball is not my favorite spectator sport and I find their constant to be measured in eternities. But I simply don't believe they should have been there, period. Had I been in the stands, I would have been rooting for Angola and Croatia, fruitless as that would have been.

This is sport corruption? How about shooting fish in a barrel? Most of us can remember the honest thrill of a few years back, watching a hockey team of American amateurs beat out the Soviet state-subsidized team.

I can remember, too, our grumbling about the fact that our amateur athletes so frequently competed against those who were subsidized by their governments. Now, we've apparently adopted the philosophy that, if we can beat 'em, we'll join 'em.

Equally discouraging was some of the television coverage of some American sports chauvinists, raising glasses high and raising celebratory hell in the wake of Barcelona following the great victory over Angola.

Celebrating what? A foregone conclusion? The victory, in my eyes, was Angola's, even being in Barcelona.

The cameras seemed to focus on those American fans who had tastefully attired themselves in the American flag. Skirts, slacks, blouses — all denoting Old Glory. And the guy who wrapped his head, bandana-style, with a flag. I wondered if he would have doffed that sweatband had the flag passed in parade.

So much for the "Dream Team" and our national obsession with sports and winners. The two seem, in the American mind, to go together like love and marriage presumably once did.

Now, to another disturbing national obsession — the beauty/talent competition.

Like pro basketball, there's no law that says I must watch Miss America, Miss World, Miss Universe, Mrs. America and Miss Teenage America — and I don't.

But until a few weeks ago, when I quite accidentally tuned into the final 15-minute segment of a news show, I hadn't fully realized the depths to which this obsession with physical beauty, grace and so-called talent had led some of my compatriots.

Would you believe it's gone far past the adolescent and grade school types and now features babies as well? Not just naturally pretty or cute babies, but 18-month-old infant girls whose mothers apply a dab of blush to their cheeks and a smidgen of mascara to their eyes.

Children taking their early, tentative steps must be held steady by Mom as she turns and twirls them onstage in imitation of older beauty contestants. The two seem, in the American mind, to go together like love and marriage presumably once did.

By age 3, they're dressed in scanty, spangled costumes, tossing batons and doing modified bumps and grinds.

Tiny tots imitate adult beauty queens and are being cheated of their childhood.

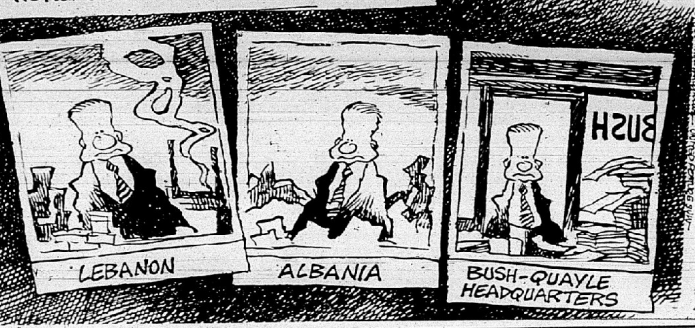

One mom, describing the thrill of victory and apparently speaking for other parents like herself, said it made all the preliminary work, making costumes, learning to apply just the right amount of make-up, coaching Baby in her routines — "worth all the work put into it" — and inspired her to go home and begin preparing for the next competition.

Worth it to whom? Certainly not the infant.

Could it be that Mom herself is one of those women who ultimately reach middle age treasuring the memory of the year they were high school homecoming queen or head cheerleader as the high point of her life?

I've known a couple of them and they're pitiful. What a pathetic, twined dream to fast off on one's little girl!

Local pride vital for school staff

TO THE EDITOR: After reading your article in the Press-Record July 2, "School residency rule revised," I was shocked and upset.

I thought, "Here go more of my tax dollars, which have been earned here in my community, out of my community to another community, probably with a lower school tax rate."

To use the excuse that the local hiring pool can no longer provide a selection of qualified candidates for administrative positions is simply bull.

There are no qualified candidates living in the townships of Granite City, Nameoki and Chouteau — who choose to live in the community they serve, the community they take pride in and the community they pay taxes in.

Even if that happens to be the case, which I seriously doubt, why not implement a policy whereby any administrator who relocates to another district has one year in which to relocate within the school district?

Are we not going to provide, from local real estate taxes, their salary and benefits?

The Park District has adopted this policy. We, the city government, require all union employees hired by the city to live within its boundaries.

Is this policy not good enough for the school board? I ask that of board members who voted against that type of policy. Mark Eavenson, Debbi Wilkerson, Jeff Parker and Carolyn Semeth.

As a city alderman, I have answered hundreds of questions concerning taxpayers' bills.

The city receives 17 cents of every tax dollar paid in real estate property taxes, while the School District receives more than 50 cents.

That's right — more than 50 percent of our real estate tax bill goes to the School District, which may I remind you, properly belongs to the School District.

I also assume the district is no different than the city, in that more than 45 percent of the tax dollars collected goes toward employees' wages and benefits.

Our School District is made up of more than 30,000 people, living in Granite City, Nameoki and Chouteau, paying millions of dollars in taxes to support our present school system, 60 percent of the funds needed to operate the school system is derived from local property taxes.

If my memory serves me correctly, no bond issue to increase property taxes to support our school district and keep it from bankruptcy has ever failed.

So, if we don't want to ask our school board members, that the administrators who handle our tax dollars, negotiate contracts paid by our tax dollars, and administer the education of our children, become our tax dollars, and have a vested interest in our community.

If that's too much to ask of them, then for one don't want them in our school district administering our children and our tax money.

If those board members still feel they must lift the residency requirement in order to obtain qualified administrators, then I think the time has come to review our present school system. As I see it, the main and only advantage to our present school system is simply community pride and commitment.

When we start to let our teachers, administrators, cooks and janitors move and live outside of the district in which our tax dollars provide their salary and benefits, then we have lost that sense of community pride and commitment which has built this school district into one of the finest in the state.

Maybe we should go that next step, and think about restructuring our present school system. Is it time to regionalize our administrative costs?

Drunk, with gun, but not arrested

TO THE EDITOR: During the night shift at a local restaurant on the night of July 1, the need arose for the (Granite City) police to be called.

The reason the police were called was that a man who was drunk and had a gun was threatening another guest, not only verbally but with a 9mm gun.

When the police there and found out who the drunk was, they said not to worry because his relative is a police officer and that he was only joking.

The police were informed about the gun. They again said not to worry, that he is only joking and that his relative was a police officer.

This does not make me feel safe when the police refuse to disarm a drunk, upset, heavily-armed person.

Did the police ever stop to think that the drunk could have shot someone with the gun if he had?

It makes me believe that, if you have a relative on Granite City's finest, then you can get away with a felony, which this guy was carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

I believe that the mayor's office should look into this incident and investigate to see if this was an isolated case or not, and punish the officers involved.

Some candidates misquote Bible

TO THE EDITOR: "God Bless America." How often in this election year have we heard this time-honored phrase?

These heart-warming words, draped over so freely from the lips of incumbent and adversary alike, regardless of agenda or platform, on this we can agree — "God bless us every one."

I do have a question, however. Exactly who is this God from Whom we desire blessing?

You see, things have changed. Years ago, the major moral issues we struggle over so vigorously were not even under consideration.

Can you imagine George Washington pondering whether or not to allow women to kill their offspring? Would Abraham Lincoln lose sleep over putting a homosexual in his Cabinet?

When they spoke of "God," they referred to the God of the Bible — a book which is quite clear on how God feels about child sacrifice and the homosexual lifestyle. So, when certain candidates endorse these things while the Bible condemns them, they must be speaking of some other god. Therefore, I formally request that these politicians be more specific.

The next time Gov. So And So desires to utter the benediction, he should name the appropriate Aztec deity.

The next time the Rev. What's His Name gets the urge, he should call out to the appropriate pagan idol.

And while we're at it, the next time some pro-abortion activists gather to sing "Amazing Grace," they need to open the Bible and find out what it is.

The world is sick of phony Christians. Those of us who claim to follow Jesus need to do just that — follow Him.

Saying you love God is proved by what you do and say. Much of what we do says we don't even know Him.

God bless America. Our actions demand a curse.

Plan needed for Robertson Park

TO THE EDITOR: The residents of East Granite are very pleased with the recent work being done to place the "East Granite School" sign on permanent display. We are very happy with the professional manner in which John Haug is handling himself and the project. He should be commended.

This letter is to ask the Park Board to hold a special meeting to address the future plans for the development of the East Granite park, Randall Robertson Park.

We, a number of residents, would like to see a five-year plan, in writing, which would show us what the board intends to do with the park.

It is our understanding that, at this time, the plans are to "mayday" in a basketball court if money is available.

We would feel more comfortable with a planned park and not just the installation of "things" when and if there is extra money.

A park plan would show a professional approach to the residents, and show that real thought is going into what the residents need and what is in their best interest.

We realize there are and will be budgetary restraints. We are smart enough to know that not everyone will be pleased with everything done.

However, we are asking that we be allowed to have input into the planning of the park and that the board set aside a special meeting or segment of a regularly scheduled meeting to address the Robertson Park plans.

We are also asking that this be announced well in advance so that residents may attend.

Although the Park Board is elected to handle affairs of the park, it is important to remember that it is the people who are being represented. If the Board does not know what the people want, how can it represent their needs?

There is a possibility the residents will be willing to be more involved in the planning and maybe in fund-raising efforts, if needed, in order to have the playground equipment, benches, trees, flowers, walking paths, whatever the final plans call for.

The residents of East Granite await the response of the Park Board and look forward to being involved in "our" park.

Bad phone law

TO THE EDITOR: The Citizens Utility Board (CUB) commends Rep. Jay Hoffman for his vote against a bill that eases restrictions on telephone company prices and profits.

Illinois Bell and other phone companies conducted a multimillion-dollar lobbying campaign to win passage of the bill, which could lead to millions of dollars in overcharges on local phone bills.

As the main voice for consumers across the state, CUB urged lawmakers to reject the measure. Unfortunately, the General Assembly approved the plan, SB 511, and Gov. Jim Edgar signed the bill into law.

Rep. Hoffman listened to the concerns of ratepayers and, despite intense pressure by phone company lobbyists, stood up for consumers and voted against the bill.

On behalf of all phone users in our area, residential ratepayers and small businesses alike, thank you, Rep. Hoffman.

Standing eye-level with "Mr. and Mrs. Right Size" and gazing into the shark tank of the Mid-America Aquacenter, visitors are in for a thrill.

Before they swim a huge shark while a large ray glides near the surface.

"Baby Right Size" enjoys the view as well — the glass drops all the way to his level — and "touchy feely" exhibits ring the glass.

From the shark tank, Mr. and Mrs. Right Size can go on to a tropical marsh, a trout stream, a coral reef and a variety of other aquatic environments. At each, they can view the environment from over, under and around. There are signs that identify the fish and animals as well as signs that give Mr. Right Size enough background information to make him seem a genius in the eyes of Baby Right Size.

"This Aquacenter is more than just rows of aquariums," said Leonard Sonnenschein, Aquacenter president.

"Everything is based on an educational concept and each area is designed to give the visitor a new experience."

Mr. Right Size is only about 6 inches tall. And the Aquacenter, currently housed in the gym at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, is only 12th floor.

But it is much more than a doll-house-sized amusement park for Baby and her friends. The model — a scale replica of the Mid-America Aquacenter that Sonnenschein hopes to build in Pontoon Beach — is the culmination of the Wonderworks Education and Training program that was jointly sponsored by the Aquacenter and BAC.

The eight-week, eight-hour-a-day program, completed by 12 students — was the only one of its kind in the world.

Sonnenschein said. Starting with a floor plan of the building, teams of students came up with a concept for each area.

Then came structure analysis, material analysis and design. "How much pressure will all the water place on the walls? Can a glass wall be built that strong? What materials are needed to make it that strong? How much of each material is needed?"

After determining if something was physically possible, the students started working on practicalities. "Will this still give the experience we were hoping to give?"

The setting was carefully researched to make sure the exhibit would present an authentic slice of the environment.

From the construction of rocks to the placement of plants to the size and location of filters, everything was calculated and planned.

Full-scale portions of scenery were constructed to make sure the finished product actually had the desired look and feel.

Then the model building began. As the models developed, the students toured with the Right Size family, viewing the exhibits from their perspective and doing some fine-tuning. The signs were then designed and the material was researched.

Sonnenschein himself was the primary instructor for the course; he brought in experts in a variety of fields to teach particular segments.

The class ended last week, but about a half-dozen students are continuing to work at BAC this month, building two full-scale aquatic exhibits that will be a part of the remodeled BAC cafeteria.

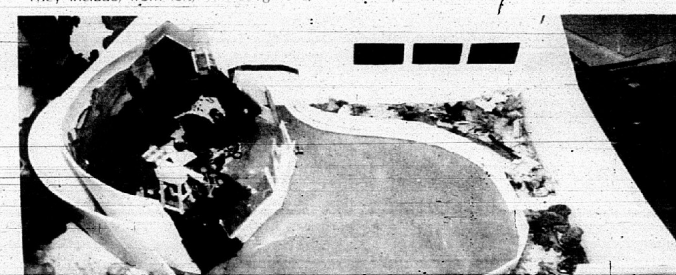

When that's over, Sonnenschein hopes the funding for the real Aquacenter will be set and construction can begin. Funding is dependent on purchase of bonds approved last year by the Pontoon Beach Village Board.

"I think we're ready," Sonnenschein said. "For example, we've finished the calculations of the amount of glass for the entire center and I'm getting ready to send it to glass firms for an estimate."

"With everything already worked out, we can start as soon as the funding is in place."

Edwardsville charity faces fraud allegation

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

An Edwardsville organization is one of four charities to be sued Monday by Pennsylvania Attorney General Ernie Preate Jr.

Following a press conference Monday, Preate filed suit against the National Children's Cancer Society of Edwardsville, claiming that the group overstated its program expenses in 1990 by more than $2.6 million.

Preate also sued the Cancer Fund of America based in Knoxville, Tenn., United Citizens Against Drugs, Inc. of Irvine, Calif., and the Child Protection Program Foundation, Inc. of Dallas, Texas.

The suits allege that the defendants were part of a "pass along" network of charities through which donated or purchased commodities of little value were passed from one charity to another, with each organization drastically overstating the value of the goods and counting them as "program services" on tax forms, financial reports and fund-raising material.

Preate said his office's investigation determined that in most cases, the goods "donated" by the defendants had nothing to do with the stated charitable purpose of the organizations.

For NCCS, established in February 1988, that purpose was "to provide financial support for individuals, primarily children, in need of surgeries and/or medicines that will prolong or improve the quality of their lives."

Preate's Charitable Trusts and Organizations Section claims that the NCCS bought $25,638 worth of outdated vegetable and flower seeds and claimed it spent $2,361,616 on the seeds before passing them onto another charity. Preate's office further claims that NCCS spent $3,362 on outdated baby food, for which it claimed a $118,387 expense, spent $2,090 on breakfast cereal, claiming a $66,000 expense, and spent $3,800 on grass seed, claiming a $60,000 expense.

Only 19 percent of the funds raised in 1990 by NCCS went to children with leukemia and other cancer-related illnesses, according to information released by Preate's office last Monday. NCCS claimed that 98 percent of its funds went to that cause.

Preate said that in 1990, NCCS was able to artificially reduce its fund-raising and administrative costs from 30.3 percent of total contributions to 21.1 percent with the fraudulent "pass along" donations.

By dropping its administrative expenses below the 25 percent level, NCCS qualified for $354,813 in federal employee contributions during 1990 and 1991 that it wouldn't have otherwise been eligible for, Preate said.

"The alleged scheme made it appear that the fund-raising operations were providing millions of dollars to the charitable causes they cite in their solicitations," Preate said. "These scams deceived consumers and, we allege, tricked officials into allowing three of these charities to receive money from federal or state employee fund-raising efforts."

Neither officials from NCCS or the Illinois Attorney General's Office could be reached for comment.

'Neighbors' pledges reach near $500,000

Support from Illinois Power customers and employees has pushed pledges and contributions to the Warm Neighbors program to nearly half a million dollars, with thousands receiving assistance.

"Illinois Power customers and employees really came through for us," again, said Energy Assistance Foundation Executive Director Lerton Krushas of the 1992 fund-raising campaign. "We helped some 2,000 families pay their heating bills this past winter and have weathered more than 1,100 homes to date."

Nearly 47,000 Illinois Power customers and employees made one-time and monthly donations to Warm Neighbors, bringing funds to $356,000. With the company's annual $100,000 commitment, that boosted grant money to more than $456,000.

The program helps pay heating bills for financially distressed low- and middle-income homes for the low-income.

Health tests offered at St. Elizabeth

St. Elizabeth Medical Center's CardioPulmonary Rehab and Prevention Program will offer cholesterol testing, blood pressure, cholesterol and blood sugar screenings at two locations. Each test includes a professional consultation with a registered nurse or a registered dietitian on the results.

The health screenings will be offered:

- Thursday, Aug. 13, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Granite City Schnucks, 3401 N. W. Road. Participants will be seen on a first-come, first-served basis. No appointments are needed.

- Wednesday, Aug. 19, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Wellness Center, 2101 West St. Granite City. Appointments are required. Persons may call 786-2201 to reserve a convenient time.

Cholesterol level screenings, blood pressure tests and professional consultation on the results will be offered at both locations for $7. Blood sugar tests, blood pressure tests and professional consultation on the results will be offered for $1.

The National Institute of Health recommends that all adults age 20 and over have their blood cholesterol levels checked because the chances of developing heart disease increase in proportion to the amount the cholesterol is elevated.

By monitoring levels, an individual can take steps necessary to lower cholesterol and the accompanying risk of developing heart disease.

Triya

Mayor Marshall E. Kirkpatrick of Granite City said that in a letter to national Socialist leaders about two years after his election in 1971, he said he was not going to say that the duty of the mayor is to remain neutral in times of industrial strife, because the duty is that neutrality is impossible. "There is no middle ground."

paying $129, $180 of which is being paid by their sponsoring member.

Every 14 days over a six-week period, the sponsoring member pays to his "upline" the amounts of $200, $300, and finally $400. Forty-two days after joining, if a member has successfully recruited other new members, and their recruits have successfully recruited others, he or she has created an organizational structure with multiple levels.

The consultants then have the opportunity to reap thousands of dollars, according to the promoters.

Under various "networking" options promoted by Paymaster, the defendants claim consultants can make anywhere from $260 to $2,800 in under six weeks, primarily by recruiting new members.

Another plan promoted by Paymaster claims consultants can make up to $260,000 in just under six weeks and earn "commission" points toward the purchase of a Canon "Navigator" personal computer and fax machine through the creation of another pyramid.

Under the so-called "Navigator" program, the consultant pays $2 for a separate "informational" packet, which, again, instructs new members on how to duplicate the success of the "informational" packet. The $75 is sent to Paymaster and the remaining $10 is paid to the sponsoring member. By recruiting new members, the consultant collects additional money from his "downline," a portion of which are paid to him in "upline."

neighborhood and "other neighborhoods all over the city" are ready to rise up and "fill Enclbert Hall, if that's what it takes to show we are united against this."

"We can't just sit in our houses and hope the drug dealers kill each other off."

The residents asked that the city government look into ways to use its current ordinances or, if necessary, enact new ordinances, to stop loitering on the streets and to stop landlords from renting to drug dealers.

Mayor John Bileff asked the residents to appoint a committee of four or five people and said he would arrange for the committee to meet with the police chief, the city attorney and, if they requested it, the mayor.

Bileff also said people from other neighborhoods should contact him if they want to be part of the committee.

By (residents) coming here and offering to help (work on a solution), I think we're heading in the right direction.

"Let's sit down together and then go from there," Bileff said. "If you decide we need a public meeting, I'll arrange to get a hall."

"These people want something done right now, not a committee," but his statement was drowned out by a chorus of "no's" from the residents.

The residents met in the City Council chambers following the meeting and appointed a six-person committee.

Alderman John Hamm, who was Bileff's representative in Woodard's neighborhood, said he asked "three and a half years ago" that the city should look down on landlords and using its occupancy permits and inspections to stop landlords from renting to drug dealers.

Hamm, who said he had been criticized for hosting a meeting with the residents at his home earlier, said it shouldn't have taken 3½ years for the city to do something. But he said he was glad to see that the city is finally willing to do something.

Bileff denied having received any complaints from Hamm on the subject prior to this week and said, "I wish you hadn't waited 3½ years to bring this up."

Police Chief Charlie Bridick said there have been at least 22 arrests in Woodard's neighborhood in the last 18 months and added that warrants were being requested for six more this month.

Since Jan. 1, Bridick said, there have been 63 additional arrests in the neighborhood for crimes other than drug offenses.

Bridick said people standing around on the street are not residents of the neighborhood, but customers and others attracted by the drug dealers who live there.

"As far as I'm concerned, the problem is the landlords," Bridick said.

"The forfeiture laws allow us to take the property of a landlord who rents to people involved in illegal activities. I called a landlord today and explained the forfeiture laws and he didn't seem to care. It's a problem."

Bridick said his department is in the process of sending letters to landlords telling them that, if their tenants are involved in illegal drug trade, the department will file for forfeiture of the property.

"I don't care who the landlord is or where they live. I don't care if the landlord has lived in Madison for 90 years and has $2 million in We will file for forfeiture and we will take the property."

City Attorney Casper Nighossian said it is important for the aldermen to remember that any ordinance they pass affects all the people, not just criminals.

Nighossian said civil rights laws make it clear that a police officer cannot even walk up to persons and ask them for identification just because they are standing on the street.

Property

made only one offer on Tatum's property, which Pelett and Associates valued at $21,000. Slate said the difference between the two sides' estimates of the value is "substantial."

If a judge upholds the city's two quick-take requests, proper acquisition will have been completed for a proposed retail development project scheduled to be started Aug. 31 by Hurwitz Enterprises of Springfield.

The site is bounded by 20th and 21st streets and Madison and Grand avenues but does not include the McDonald's Restaurant, which is on the corner. The city will have to clear the land, including demolishing the cleaning shop, which opened six years ago.

The project is part of a $2 million tax increment financing package the city approved a year ago, city Economic Development Director Alan Orbital said.

The city plans to sell the land to Hurwitz for $242,000. Orbital said the city attorney, will file the quick-take proposal when she develops a final plan for the conference in North Carolina, perhaps by Friday.

Slate has said he will oppose the quick-take plan.

The vote to proceed was 11-2. Gary O'Hear and Dan Broderick dissented and Craig Tarpoff was absent.

Youth

Hagauer also said that, several years ago, near the end of the fiscal year, the senior committee purchased two televisions and a stand but, to his knowledge, one of the televisions has never been used.

"If the seniors are spending that money and it's doing some good, that's fine," Cruise said. "But I think the money should be doing something for our youth."

An additional $5,500 was allocated for youth activities, necessitating equivalent cuts elsewhere to balance the budget.

Alderman Judy Whitaker pointed out that Assessor Darlene Laub's office is appropriated $10,000 for employee training. "I know what we've cut in the city's budget, and I have a problem with this training appropriation," Whitaker said.

Laub explained that her employees must receive 30 hours of training each year to maintain certification. She said that, while training costs have risen ly increased, the training budget has remained at $10,000 for the past four years.

"I could hate to see anyone in my office lose their certification," Laub said, but she agreed to take a $2,000 reduction.

The remaining $3,500 in cuts came from a line item initially allocating $10,500 for the Town Board.

Bookkeeper Marilyn Brannbauer said the actual expenditure for the line item last year was $3,320 because the board refused to accept a pay increase.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 6, 1992
GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Dave Whaley

1991 ending was tougher

The end of the season Sunday was tough to take for Triplets manager, Ralph Burnett. But he's told worse.

"This isn't as tough as last year," said Burnett, who will likely step down as the Post 113 manager to become the District 22 commissioner. "Last year's team could have kept going much further than it did. I really felt this team got as much out of itself as it could."

The 1991 Triplets were 28-6 and finished second in the state. With Rich Schardan, Brian Harshany, Drake Marshall and Ryan Reeves, they had a four-man pitching rotation to match anyone's. And the batting order (Harshany, Erik Lewis, Dan Partney etc.) was able to explode with extra base hits at any time.

This year, the pitching wasn't nearly as deep and past hits were virtually non-existent, with two home runs all summer. Still, the Triplets managed a 26-13 record. And despite what Burnett said, they very easily could have gone further.

With a break here or there Sunday, Post 113 would have repeated its District 22 championship, then would have needed to only win three games this weekend to defend its Fifth Division title and advance to state again.

"We probably could have won the Fifth again," said Burnett. "But Jeff Ridenour wasn't on our national roster and Jason Maxfield (on vacation) wouldn't have been with us. So we would have had Drake out in center field and the lineup switched around again. It would have been tough for us at state, because we would have seen teams there with deeper pitching and the ability to hit the ball out of the park."

Actually, Post 113 might have lost the series to Fairview Heights last Thursday night when Alton extended the North Division playoffs by 24 hours with a 6-2 win. The Triplets would have had their 1-2 pitching punch of Marshall and Reeves ready for Fairview, but that got knocked out of whack.

Ben Hicks and an injured Chris Hill gave it their Sunday, but Fairview got just enough to hold off the home team in 9-6 and 8-7 wins. Post 113 got great relief pitching Sunday from Randy Scott, Jeff Miller and Reeves and almost rallied to win both games.

"None of the seniors will be able to come back next year, but this team will be fine," said Burnett. "There were a lot of good juniors, and they should only get better."

One in particular is Bobby Wilson. He was locked in "the zone" Sunday with six hits. If he gets a little stronger and starts getting more extra base hits, he could become Granite City's most dangerous lefthanded hitter since the days of Todd Hinters and John Moad.

MVP!

Reeves shares Legion honor with Geluck

By Keith Farroll
Correspondent

Ryan Reeves and Brian Geluck have been a nuisance to the opposition throughout the 1992 American Legion season, whether they threw from the mound or dug into the batter's box.

For their performances on the year, they shared the District 22 MVP honors at the league All-Star Game on Tuesday at Longacre Park in Fairview Heights. Geluck posted a .485 average while earning a 7-1 record. Reeves recorded a .470 batting average and was 5-3 on the mound.

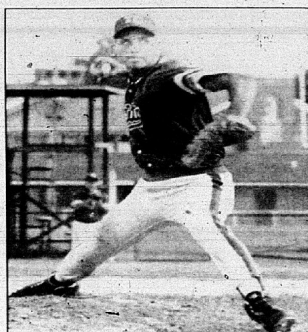

Reeves saved his best for last. In the playoffs, he was 12-for-24 with 10 RBI. He was also 2-0 on the mound and allowed only one unearned run in 16 1/3 innings of pitching. He closed the season by going 2-0 in the playoffs without allowing an earned run.

The former Granite City High School star has found success everywhere he goes in a baseball uniform.

He was a standout in center field for the Warriors before starting at Rend Lake Junior College last year. This year, however, he will go on to play for Lewis and Clark Junior College.

Triplets manager Ralph Burnett said he expected a lot more after Reeves returned from Rend Lake to play in his final Legion season. Reeves started in center field for Rend Lake while compiling a .365 batting average.

"He had that maturity, and I've coached Ryan for three years and he had it all," Burnett said. "I

Bauman, Jones extends points leads at speedway

Sonny Smyser and Mike Mudd earned their first feature wins of 1992 at Tri-City Speedway on Saturday. Meanwhile, Ed Bauman and Dave Jones made return appearances on the victory stand to extend their leads in the season point standings.

Smyser turned the fastest qualifying time for the Clark Oil UMC late model series, then scored a wire-to-wire triumph over Mark Voigt and Bauman in the first feature. In the second feature, Bauman, charged by lead-coming from the rear of the starting order to earn a feature victory over heat winners Rick Rhoades and Max Kirkendall.

Next on the schedule is the World of Outlaws on Monday. The "Greatest Show on Dirt" will make its last stop at Tri-City for the year before heading off to the Knoxville (Tenn.) Nationals that begin Aug. 12.

Sprint car teams from throughout the country will be tuning up for the $300,000 Nationals. In preparation for the granddaddy of all World of Outlaws events, Steve Kinser will be shooting for the "hat trick," having won the two previous races this year at Tri-City. Sammy Swindell, Steve Smith, Mark Kinser and Kenny Jacobs will all be trying to break Kinser's streak on the half-mile track.

The winner of the 30-lap Copenhagen/Skoal Shootout will earn $5,200 from the $32,325 in posted prize money. Advance reserved seats are available by calling Racetrax at 314-669-6666 or Wente Enterprises at 314-947-7287.

General admission on race day will be $20 for adults and $10 for children under 12. Gates open at 4 p.m. Time trials are at 7 and racing begins at 8.

Greenwald reflects on time in baseball

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

Jim Greenwald has hung up his baseball spikes forever. But he doesn't miss the game as much as he thought he would.

"Not really," said the 39-year-old Granite City native. "When you get to be my age (39), the fun starts to leave the game. It becomes more of a struggle and your body is usually sore the next day. I had ideas of calling it quits late last season. It wasn't a real difficult decision."

Bad knees aided his decision after a long career with the Sauget Wizards of the Mon-lair League. Greenwald had a third of his kneecaps removed on each knee and had cartilage repaired.

"Not one particular thing was responsible for my knees being so messed up," he said. "It was just wear and tear over the years. I'm undergoing therapy now, but I should be back to normal eventually."

At least Greenwald finished his career on a high note. He belted seven home runs and made the all-star team last season.

"I was pleased with my season," said Greenwald, who was hampered by a pulled hamstring in 1990. "I didn't see myself playing on an everyday basis, but it became a necessity."

"I gave it everything I had and stayed healthy through the long haul. I couldn't have gone out any better."

He was extremely pleased with his career.

"There was nothing left for me to prove," Greenwald said. "I accomplished all I could."

The only setback might be not getting a shot at the major leagues, but I didn't embarrass myself playing minor league ball for a couple of years."

Auto Scoring: "I like it. Everybody likes it. It's easy to read, some systems are more difficult to read. Accuscore is real good."

Friendly Atmosphere: "There's always a good friendly atmosphere. It's cool and comfortable in the summer. The lower ceiling helps you zero in on the pins. The staff knows you, jokes with you and bowls with you."

High scoring: "The alleys are better. They're taken care of better here. My average is 10 pins better than when I bowl anywhere else."

Granite City youth earns hockey award

Richie Kismar, 12, of Granite City won an award after attending the Bemidji Hockey Camp in Minnesota recently.

Kismar, who will be in seventh grade at Grigsby Junior High School this fall, earned the Master of the Award for ability, performance, leadership and sportsmanship at the end of the one-week camp at Bemidji State University.

Kismar was the only camper from Illinois. He was voted the recipient of the Masterton Award by his teammates.

Flag football having signups next week

The Granite City Park District is now organizing the flag football program for the fall.

The league will play on Monday nights at Worthen Park, and will be made up of boys in fourth, fifth and sixth grades. Registration for the program will be the week of Aug. 10-14 at the Wilson Park office. The fees are $20 for park district residents and $25 for non-residents. The fee will include the use of a helmet, a set of shoulder pads and a jersey to be turned in at the end of the season.

Equipment will be issued at the Wilson Park office on Aug. 31 at 6 p.m. The league will start play in September after several weeks of practice and end in late October. All boys will be assigned to a team.

This is the second year for the league and all the boys who participated last year had a lot of fun and learned a lot about football thanks to some very good coaching.

For more information, call Ray Hoffman at 877-3059.

GCHS cross country practice on Aug. 17

The first GCHS cross country practice of the season will be held Aug. 17 at 9 a.m.

Warrior coach Dave McClain said all prospective runners should report to the high school cafeteria at that time. All athletes should have a copy of their physical exams ready then, said McClain.

The first meet of the regular season will be the Granite City Invitational on Sept. 5.

QCSA seeks coaches, players for fall session

The Quad-Cities Soccer Association is looking for someone interested in coaching a soccer team for boys and girls born in 1984.

QCSA is also looking for boys and girls born in 1983 and 1984 to play in the fall session. Anyone wanting to play, coach or wanting more information should call the QCSA hotline at 876-9000.

Stealers — The Granite City Stealers 14 and under team recently won the Cahokia Homecoming girls fast pitch softball tournament. Team members included (front row left to right) Nancy Krueger, Crystal Donaldson and Heather Withers, second row coach Greg Wozniak, Jill Wozniak, Jenny Lewingham and Mary Dochwat; back row coach Joe Willis, Terry Yurko, Erin Tomasz, Julie Tanksey, Becky Ward and manager Harold Tanksey. probably stayed more on him this year than any other year, but I expected more out of him. Toward the end of the season he was our best player. He pitched, he hit and he played third base. A position where we really needed some help.

Reeves didn't pitch at Rend Lake and said he earned his first two losses at the beginning of this summer before he got back into the pitching mode.

Fitching was tough at first because it was a while since I pitched, but I got back into it. Reeves said.

Reeves said he was happy to see himself and Geluck get the MVP honor.

"It's a real nice honor," Reeves said. "I've seen him (Geluck) a couple of times and he is a real nice pitcher and hitter."

Reeves becomes the fourth Post 113 player to get his hands on the District 22 MVP honor in the last five years. Outright winners from the Triplets have been Darin Hendrickson (1988), Joe Wallace (1990) and Brian Harshy (1991). Burnett was also named the District 22 Manager of the Year for the third time.

him out of the picture. He was a "fringe" player in the Minnesota Twins organization after graduating from Granite City High School in 1970. He hit .349 his senior year before playing at St. Louis.

"I was having a good season in the (Twins system), but they didn't have a lot of money invested in me," he said. "They brought in a fourth-round draft choice and it pretty well sums up what happened. The Phillies gave me a shot, but I got caught in a youth movement. I'm not bitter though. The game was good to me."

Greenwald stayed active not only as a semipro player but also as a regional scout for the Chicago Cubs. He also makes himself available as a hitting instructor to a lot of the young players coming up in Granite City.

"My regular job manager of the Oz Night Club in Sauget, cut into my free time," he said. "It was getting pretty tough working all night on Saturday and playing Sunday afternoon on only three hours sleep.

"It was a great career. This is the first summer since I started playing little league that I haven't played baseball."

'Alternative' bands thrive

By Bill Boggs
Correspondent

LOLLAPALOOZA '92. Weird, wild, way gone, this banquet of "alternative" bands blew through St. Louis last week. Ministry, Lush, Soundgarden, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Pearl Jam, et al., get hardly any radio exposure, but they sold out Riverport. Occasionally, music that's out of the manufactured-pop mainstream does get some airplay.

1. Red Hot Chili Peppers hit single digits recently in Billboard's Top 40 with what song that's a tad out of character for these frenetic funksters?

2. Cause & Effect, whose current hit "Another Minute" and recent entry "You Think You Know Her," feature disinterested vocal stylings and all-synth instrumental work, that's inspired the label "a poor man's" version of what British group?

3. Dance club-faves New Order, which hit No. 32 in 1987 with "True Faith," sprang from the wreckage of what ironically named group?

4. What outrageous, androgynous dance-pop quartet hit No. 15 in the winter of 1987 with "Brand New Lover"?

5. Name the group, and its openly gay leader, who recorded the 1987 No. 40 remake of Thelma Houston's 1977 No. 1 "Don't Leave Me This Way."

6. Who, leader of what now-defunct band, organized the first Lollapalooza spectacle in 1991?

7. Nine Inch Nails, who really a one-man band, is whom?

8. What rapper on the Lollapalooza '92 circuit has been lambasted for racism because of his latest album's diatribes against Korean-Americans?

9. Some fans yell "sellout!" when an alternative act mines pop gold. What Seattle-based band, whose album "Nevermind" topped the chart a few months ago, found itself in that hot spot?

10. Doom-rock fave of anyone who ever painted his or her fingernails black, what band first scrapped the Top 40 in 1988, with "Just Like Heaven"? (Extra credit: The band is faring better on the pop chart of late, what's its current hit?)

ANSWERS: 1. "Under the Bridge" 2. Depeche Mode 3. Joy Division (troubled leader Ian Curtis hanged himself in May 1980) 4. Dead Or Alive 5. Communards, Jimmy Somerville 6. Percy Fawcett 7. J. Geils Band 8. Trent Reznor & Ice Cube 9. Nirvana 10. "Just Like Heaven" (Extra credit: "Friday I'm in Love" was climbing into the teens last month.)

Damon Wayans stars as a con man who tries to go straight to win Stacy Dash's heart, in 'Mo' Money.'

Funny people being sought

If you can make funny sound effects with your face, be your eyes behind your head while dancing or do an impression of Popeye singing "Feelings," you might strike it rich on "America's Funniest People."

A scout from the ABC television series will be holding auditions for contestants at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 12, at Shu Shu's Comedy Club in Fairview Heights.

Auditions are open to anyone. Anyone selected as a contestant for the show is eligible for a $10,000 prize.

The scout will be looking for such funny bits as:

• Brief, clean jokes: Punch line jokes under 30 seconds are preferred; over-observational humor. No ethnic jokes or overly risqué humor will be acceptable.

• Visual physical comedy bits with props: Funny stuff to look at such as whacky costumes, inventions, props such as juggling gorillas or pie-in-the-face humor.

• Spoofs or parodies: Funny versions of commercials, television shows or movies.

• Celebrity impressions with a comic twist: Unusual impressions such as Jesse Jackson as a weather man or Ross Perot as Capt. Kirk, not just John Wayne, as a cowboy or Joan Rivers as a comedienne.

• Funny sound effects or impressions.

• Funny songs: Try funny lyrics to old tunes.

Damon, Marlon Wayans make show business a family affair

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

The Wayans family has spawned a triple threat in the world of entertainment.

Older brother Keenan Ivory Wayans is a successful producer, writer, director and comedian. He conceived the popular comedy sketch television series "In Living Color" that co-stars his sister Kim and his brother Damon.

Damon Wayans is being touted as the next Eddie Murphy. In addition to his latest movie, "Mo' Money," which he wrote, produced and stars in, Damon is also well known for appearing in his like "The Last Boy Scout," "Roxanne" and "Hollywood Shuffle." He is also respected as a successful comedian on television and in nightclubs.

Damon's younger brother Marlon co-stars in "Mo' Money." Damon and Marlon play two brothers who make a living on the streets of Chicago through a variety of scams and dodges.

"Having Marlon in the film has brought more to this project for me," Damon said of his 19-year-old brother. "We already have an affinity for one another. There's this built-in chemistry, and you don't have to worry about the believability that he's my brother."

Marlon Wayans echoed his brother's sentiments.

"I have stability in terms of my family and all my brothers and sisters," including Damon, Marlon said. "I'm the youngest of 10 kids in our family. I love my family. I have an education. I have an agenda. I remember when Damon didn't have anything, and he was working his behind off. He got discouraged, but he stayed in there. He made his name, and now he deserves the success he's finally getting."

Damon Wayans says his success in show business relies on his ability to understand the material at hand, regardless of whether he's a performer, writer or director. He says understanding your material is 90 percent of the battle.

"The other significant challenge comes mostly as a director," Damon Wayans said. "It is making your actors understand your vision and allowing them to bring their creativity into play within the grounds of what has been written."

"Mo' Money" was written with a definite appeal to the mass audience, focusing on a character that could be white, black, Asian, Hispanic, any man and every man. One, "I want my audience to have fun, and two, I want them to come back to hear the jokes they missed."

"Mo' Money" is an action-comedy love story," Wayans said. "It's about a guy who's a street con. He's not really happy in life, but he's surviving. And then he meets this beautiful woman and all he wants to do is impress her."
